The Edward Jones offices serving the Alpena, MI market contribute to economic development by participating in an Alpena Area Chamber of Commerce membership at an economic development tier. Below they share their story, and why they chose to increase their investment.

Staff at each of the four Edward Jones offices in the Alpena area believe:

- There is tremendous opportunity now and in the future and we need a focused effort on growing Alpena in a way that makes most sense.
- We have an economic development team at the Chamber of Commerce along with their partners, that is absolutely committed to seeing this community grow.
- The economic development team needs our support to continue making positive strides forward.

Chuck Ingle:

“Alpena is on the verge of some great things. It is exciting knowing that Edward Jones is part of the growth.”

Marc Ferguson:

“At its heart, economic development is about building a healthy economy in order to have a healthy community. Our Chamber is key in leading the effort and we want to support them in their endeavor to improve our local economy and create a better quality of life for all of us.”

Bryan Strong:

“I wanted to support the economic development team because I strongly believe in our potential and want to be part of seeing it become reality.”

Pam Pfeifer:

“Alpena has a lot to offer current and future residents. We need to support cultivation of that potential to turn it in to real growth.”
